North's three notrump response promised about 12 to 14 points and four-card spade support. After two cue bids, four notrump asked for key cards and North promised three. How do you plan to make twelve tricks after West leads the king of hearts? (Trumps are 2-1)

On the lead of the spade King, it was obvious that both the ♥A and ♦K were badly placed, so some alternative plan was needed to make game.

On winning with the spade Ace, declarer led a low heart from dummy. East won with the Queen and switched to her singleton club. Winning in dummy, declarer cross-ruffed 2 hearts and 2 spades to reduce all to

The Twilight Zone

There must be something supernatural about Siggy Konig and Jim Wallis. Many years experience reporting their doings at the New Zealand Congress have persuaded me that the moment they sit down the entire table moves into the Twilight Zone. Consider these two exhibits.

This was their first board in the first Teams match Siggy was North and opened 1C. The director arrived to tell him that he had to wait his turn. East passed as did Jim, perforce. A pass from West saw Siggy open 3NT on his 14 count. A diamond was led to the Jack and Siggy pushed out a small club. Not having a lot of information nor inference available from the auction, East ducked and Siggy claimed for 9 tricks.

Then there was the vanishing Ace of clubs.

Siggy was not feeling well enough to play the last round of the Swiss so Cathy Mill was pressed into service as a substitute. Siggy's avatar remained however.

Cathy opened 1H as North and Jim responded 2NT, game forcing. Cathy leapt to a 4C splinter and Jim cued the Ace of diamonds. Cathy couldn't find any more good news and signed off in 4H. The meaning of the 4C bid was duly requested and explained. East then led a small club. After the trick was turned nobody did very much for a minute or so before Cathy told West that it was her lead. West denied this and Cathy is still wondering where the Ace of clubs went.

Perhaps Nigel Rosendorff can help her find it.

Nigel was playing 3NT from the North seat and received the 5 of clubs lead. The 10 was covered by the Jack and Nigel ducked. He also ducked the ensuing Queen and then "took" his King on the third round. Four club tricks and the Queen of diamonds meant one off.

Phil Gue explains that Nigel's somewhat eccentric selection of club plays was motivated by his belief that trick one had been taken by the Ace.

Still in the Twilight Zone, we visit Ishmael DeMonte's table in the third round

KEITH MC NEIL LIBRARY of the Australian Bridge Federation

The Keith McNeil Library is housed at Australian Bridge Federation Office 4/51 Tennyson Street, Fyshwick. Ph.6239 2265.

The Library is a 'Reference Only Library' of monographs, periodicals, audio - visual material, memorabilia, devices and computer programs. The material held in the library is an historical collection that dates from 1910 until the present day. Also housed with the Library are the many trophies for major ABF events.

The basis of the Library collection is the personal library of Keith Mc Neil who left his collection to the ABF with the stipulation that it was to be Reference Collection only. ABF members are always welcome to come to the Library to access any publication they wish to access or read on the premises.

The content of the Library is expanded by the careful selection of books, etc by Tim Bourke – who many years ago took on the task of seeing that the Library collection is added to as new books, etc are published and collecting any historical publications that become available.

If you are interested in making a short visit to see the Library and have your own transport you will be made most welcome by Jane Rasmussen (ABF Secretary) who has recently been appointed as a replacement to Val Brockwell who retired late last year after many years of service.

If you need transport out to see the Library – depending on the number of people interested, I hope to be able to organise transport to leave Rydges at 9.15 am returning to Rydges by 10.30 am. If you are interested in seeing the library, please leave your name and a contact number with Sue, Fran or Pam and I will contact you to see if we can arrange a visit.

Wrong Side

Phil Gue gave me this one where he feels that his choice of action led to a wrong-sided slam – wrong that is for Phil's team.

Khokan Baghi opened 3S and Margaret Bourke doubled. Phil raised to 4S – a decision he was later to regret. Arjuna De Livera doubled and Margaret pulled to 5H. Arjuna bid the slam which is, of course, cold from the West seat. Had Phil bid 4C then he is confident that Arjuna would have bid 4H and then the opposition can either play game or go down in slam on a club lead.

Is not just a sponsor of this event but is also the name of one of the high seeds at Rydges. Penline owner, Maryo Derofe is not an experienced player but has really impressed partner, Ishmael DelMonte, with his play on a couple of hands on the first day of the Teams.

East opened 1D and Ish put in 3C. Maryo shot 3NT.

East led a spade and Maryo could only count eight tricks. He ran the club suit putting East under pressure. Having to find 4 discards, he guessed to keep his spades, the Ace and Queen of hearts and a bare King of diamonds. No worries for Maryo – diamond to the Ace and, with the King coming down, the Queen of diamonds was trick 9.

Onto the third round

Maryo opened 1S after a pass from West. Ish made a Bergen type raise to 3D and Maryo bid the spade game.

A diamond was led, followed by a heart switch taken in the closed hand. Maryo cashed the two top trumps and continued with a heart to the King, dropping the Queen. He ruffed a diamond on table and led the 10 of hearts. West didn't cover, Maryo pitched a club and East ruffed.

The position now was

Even with the screens, it was obvious that North's double was reluctant. Thus South was honour-bound to pass 5Dx, knowing that it may not work out well. North led a spade. Chadwick cross-ruffed the first seven tricks, drew trumps and conceded a club. -950 did not look good on the first board of the match.

You know the gods are smiling on you when your team-mates bring back +1540 on the same board.

To think, I could have passed out 4D.....

 Cue

“Typical”, offered Chadwick at the sight of dummy, “you bid hearts and diamonds and show up with clubs and spades!”

The play was interesting, to say the least.

East led the diamond King, ruffed on table. Declarer played the spade King, taken by East with the Ace. (it does no good to hold up, as long as North gives up on trumps.)

The diamond Jack was now ruffed and the Queen of spades followed, on which West pitched a diamond. The top 2 clubs were cashed, on the second of which declarer dropped a diamond, and then a club was ruffed. A heart was played to the Queen and another club played back for declarer to discard a diamond while East ruffed. East exited a heart to dummy’s Ace and then another club, discarding another diamond before East ruffed led to a claim.

Onto the third set, where a slight difference in the auction led to a vastly different outcome.

A Tough Decision

Mike Prescott was most impressed by the card pulled by a defender on this one from the Swiss.

Mike and partner, John Hughes, had reached 4S, played by Mike, South.

Mary Yeates led her singleton diamond to the Queen, King and Ace. Mike played back the 10 of diamonds which Mary ruffed. She then played a low trump to Ted Hobson's Ace.

Now Ted found the only card to give the defence a chance – a low heart.

Now, Mike could either play for East to have led away from the King or he could rise with the Ace, draw trumps and play for West to have the King. If the latter is the case, a low heart towards dummy would force Mary to give declarer a stepping stone into dummy and enough tricks to make the contract.

Note that if Ted gives Mary the second ruff, then she will be endplayed by her partner, having only clubs and hearts left.

Interestingly, Mike didn't tell me which choice he made at the table though I suspect from his rueful expression that he went with plan B.

SOLUTION TO TIM BOURKE'S PROBLEM

The crux of the deal is avoiding a second diamond loser. In isolation, the best play in diamonds is to finesse the nine on the first round. This succeeds immediately when East holds the jack and ten of diamonds because the nine will West's king. When the nine loses to the jack or ten from West, you finesse the queen next time. While this gives you two chances of success, it fails on this layout:

♠ 7 5 ♥ K Q J 9 ♦ K J 6 4 ♣ 7 5 2	♠ 6 ♥ 10 6 5 3 ♦ 10 8 ♣ Q J 10 6 4 3
♠ A 8 3 2 ♥ A 8 7 2 ♦ 7 3 2 ♣ A 8	♠ K Q J 10 9 4 ♥ 4 ♦ A Q 9 5 ♣ K 9

The way to overcome this arrangement is to eliminate the clubs and hearts before touching diamonds. The only trap is failing to manage the entries required to bring this about.

As you need to ruff three hearts to eliminate the suit and another to return to dummy to lead diamonds, you need four entries in all. So, after taking the opening lead with the ace of hearts, you immediately ruff a heart high and then lead another high trump to dummy's ace. A third heart ruffed high eliminates the suit, as planned, and you will still have the four of trumps left and use it to cross to dummy with the eight of trumps to ruff dummy's last heart, thereby eliminating the suit.

The king and ace of clubs removes the clubs and returns you to dummy for a fourth time. Now it is time to play a diamond and cover East's card. Here, as East will likely play the eight, West takes the nine with the jack but is endplayed for his troubles. He has the choice of giving you your twelfth trick by returning a diamond into your tenace or playing a club, which gives you a ruff-and-discard. In that case you throw a diamond from dummy and ruff in your hand. After cashing the ace of diamonds at trick twelve you make the last trick with dummy's remaining trump.

The result is the same if East plays the ten of diamonds on the first round of the suit. West takes the queen with the king but, as your ♦A-9 is now a tenace; you will still be able to hold your diamond losers to one if West returns a diamond.

You should also thank West for not leading a trump. It destroys the entries necessary to bring off the above elimination and endplay on the illustrative layout.

VERONA The name of Verona is known throughout the world because of Shakespeare's tragedy, Romeo and Juliet. The places where according to the tradition the two young lovers lived and died, are visited by thousands every year. Only a few paces from Piazza Erbe is Juliet's house once owned by the Capulet family. A small marble balcony records the most famous verses of Shakespeare's tragedy, where Juliet stood while Romeo declared his love for her. Verona's historical centre boasts many magnificent Roman ruins, the most famous being the Roman Arena, which dates back to the 1st century A.D. This great amphitheatre held up to 25,000 spectators and its interior is still perfectly preserved although most of the exterior wall has now fallen down.
